RINGING WORDS

From a Prominent and Eminent Divine.

Statements That Are True and Straight to the Point.

Read What He Says, for His Words Are of Great and Peculiar Interest.

No one knows better than the faithful pastor the great value of sound physical and nerve strength. The strain upon brain and nerve, the physical exhaustion following excessive work, the responsibilities and sympathies with afflictions and the myriad cares make the earnest preacher's duties arduous and wearing in the extreme.

We do not wonder, therefore, at the strong and ringing words of praise which the eminent divine, Rev. C. D. R. Meacham, gives that most wonderful of medicines, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. When he was run down in health, weak in nerves, prostrated in strength, and with his blood badly impaired, he was restored to sound and vigorous health by this marvellous health renewer.

Here are the exact facts in his own words:

"I am very glad to say in regard to Dr. Greene's great remedy that when my blood was badly impoverished by an old scrofula humor, and my nervous system was greatly impaired, Dr. Greene's medicine gave me wonderful relief.

"At the present time my health is as good as at any time in my life, and my confidence in Dr. Greene's remedy is constantly increasing.

"Rev. C. D. R. MEACHAM.

"Pastor Baptist Church, Townshend, Vt."

We have published the testimonials of vast numbers of people who were cured by the use of the great discovery, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, but we take more pleasure in giving to the word Rev. Mr. Meacham's own words in regard to the wonderful benefits he received from this valuable remedy, because we realize that the earnest words of a minister will have great weight with sufferers from disease, and everybody who reads his convincing words in regard to the sure and remarkable curative powers of this medicine will lose no time in securing a bottle and thus obtain a cure.

It is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless, and is kept by all druggists at $1.00.

Its discoverer is the well-known Dr. Greene of 35 W. 14th street, New York, who gives consultation and advice free to the sick, personally or by letter. The sick should use immediately Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, for it is not only the best remedy ever discovered, but those using it have the privilege of consulting Dr. Greene concerning its effects, their health, etc. This fact alone guarantees the assurance of cure. If you need a medicine do not fail to take this best of all remedies.

DROWNED.

Fatal Accident to a Chicago Millionaire.

Alexandria, Sept. 8.—George R. Grant, a millionaire attorney, a guest for a few days of Hon. William B. Keep, both of Chicago, at the Chicago club on Lake Milona in this city, was drowned while fishing.

He stood up in the boat to remove his coat which was loaded down with cartridges and had it off just so far as to securely pinion his arms when he fell overboard.

His brother-in-law, stationed half a mile away, saw the accident, and hastily rowed to his assistance.

Grasping the heavy trolling line which hung over the boat, the hook caught in the clothing of the drowned man, he raised the body to the surface, but could not get it into the boat. So lashing the arms over the unwhale of the boat he rowed with the other boat for help.

Half an hour elapsed before the body could be taken out of the water, and life was entirely extinct. Grant was to have returned home last night. He leaves a wife and daughter. The deceased carried $250,000 insurance on his life, and took out a policy for $16,000 accident insurance before leaving Chicago in several old line companies.

An Order From the Election Board.

At the meeting of the board of elections this morning the following resolutionwasadopted:

Resolved, That the secretary be and he is hereby instructed to notify the county central committee of the republican party, that on account of the size of the townships and for the convenience of the voters, the board of elections appointed more than one votingplace in the townships of Oregon, Washington and Waterville, and therefore the said central committee, when it receives the returns from these voting places, shall determine the seven persons receiving the highest number of votes in all the precincts of Oregon; the eleven persons in like manner in all the precincts of Washington, and the four in all the precincts of Waterville, and such persons shall be entitled to seats in the convention.

The Scrimmage Is On.

The polls of the republican primaries opened at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and votes will be received until 9 o'clock. The three candidates for congress—J. Kent Hamilton, C. P. Griffin and J. M. Ashley—have tickets with a list of delegates from each of the wards and townships supposedly for them. Many of the names are on two of the tickets, and some on the three, which means that when the county convention is held there will be disappointment, as only one of the candidates can be voted for. It's a republican mess, however, and democrats can look on disinterestedly. Sufficient mischief has been done to warrant the assertion that the democratic nominee has more than a fair chance to go to congress.

Delta People Return Thanks.

Dr. J. A. Wilkins, of Delta, was in the city yesterday for the purpose of settling with the fire department for aid afforded in the recent destructive conflagration which visited that thriving town. Calling upon Chief Wall, the doctor was informed that Toledo had no bill against Delta, and only regretted that greater good could not have been done. Dr. Wilkins expressed the thanks of his fellow-citizens for the favor, stating that the efforts of the department were much appreciated, and the final favor would add greatly to that feeling by the people of Delta. The doctor desired the Bee to extend their thanks in a public manner. Work has already begun restoring the destroyed structures, and Delta will soon occupy its old-time position among her neighbors. Her continued prosperity will be learned with pleasure by every citizen of Toledo and vicinity.

WERE NOT SOLD.

The Four Per Cent. Park Bonds Too Low for the Buyers.

To-day at noon representatives of five bond-buying firms put in an appearance at City Auditor Pheatt's office, with bids for the $100,000 of park bonds which have been advertised for sale for the past 30 days. The bids summarized are as follows:

Spitzer & Co.—Par, interest and premium of $1,000, provided they are made 4 1-2 per cent.

Seasongood, Mayer & Co.—Par, provided a commission of $5,000 is allowed.

E. H. Rollins & Son—$91,500.

Blair & Co.—Par, less a commission of 8 per cent.

N. W. Harris & Co.—Par, provided commission of $7,300 is allowed.

The law fixes the rate of interest at 4 per cent., and compels the bonds to be sold at par, hence under the bids an award was not made.

CORBETT-SULLIVAN.

How the News Was Received in This City.

Not even in a presidential election was there more interest taken by Toledoans than in the Sullivan-Corbett fight last night.

The pool rooms were crowded long before 8 o'clock, and the sentiment of the throngs seemed to be decidedly with Corbett, although few were found to accept the odds at one time offered on Sullivan—5 to 2.

During the announcement of the rounds through the bulletins the result was cheered when Corbett scored a point.

There was no heavy betting here. Charlie Hanner, it is said, cleared $1,000, and the pool seller at Wallace's made thrice that. Sullivan's admirers who put up their pile on the ex-champion would have sacrificed their money to see him win.

The following tart message passed over the wires this morning:

Duncan C. Ross to Sullivan, New Orleans:

Rats, rats, rats. Rodents, rodents, rodents. Ha, ha.

LATIMER RESIGNS

As Deputy United States Marshal at Toledo,

And Dan Harmon, of This City, Will Be His Successor—The Exchange to Take Place This Week.

Deputy United States Marshal S. O. Latimer has resigned and his successor will be Dan Harmon, of this city.

Marshal Haskell arrives here to-day from a trip to the upper lakes and on his arrival the change will be officially announced.

Mr. Latimer returns to his home in Ashtabula county, and will engage in business there.

He resigned several weeks ago, but Marshal Haskell requested him to remain at his post here until he (Haskell) returned from a trip to the upper lakes.

Mr. Latimer during his residence in Toledo made many warm friends, who will learn of his departure with sincere regret. He was a faithful and efficient officer and a courteous and obliging gentleman.

The appointment of Dan Harmon will give satisfaction, for Dan is a first rate good fellow, and his many friends will congratulate him on his appointment.

ROBBING GRAIN CARS.

Nine East Toledo Boys Bore Through the Bottom

And Have Been Stealing Large Quantities of Grain for Six Months and Selling It to East Toledo Dealers.

For six months past the C., H. & D. Railroad company has been missing grain. The contents of loaded cars were noticed to dwindle materially during transit, but just where the leakage occurred was not ascertained until yesterday.

It was learned that several dealers in East Toledo were purchasing grain from boys at the ridiculously small price of 40 cents a bushel.

The detectives went to work on this clue and discovered that a gang of nine boys, whose ages ranged from 11 to 17 years, had been systematically robbing the grain cars in the East Toledo stock yards.

They were boys residing in that vicinity, and they would go at night or at dusk and with an augur would bore through the bottom of the cars and let the grain run out into receptacles.

They carried off immense quantities of grain in this manner. Some of the boys would steal in broad daylight, by tying the bottom of their pants around their ankles and then let the grain flow in at their waist-band until they had a cargo on board, when they would navigate away and unload in some secreted place.

Detectives O'Brien and Carew arrested nine boys, Walter Hutchinson, William Wright, Ed. Connors, Thos. Anglim, Ernest Brown, Thomas Stack, John Stack, Barney Tripp and Robert Housman.

They were tried in police court this morning. Three of the leaders will probably be sent to the reform school at Lancaster. The court will dispose of the cases this afternoon.

TRADES' CONGRESS.

Important Action at the London Meeting.

London, Sept. 8.—The trades' union congress in session at Glasgow passed a resolution to-day that steps were necessary to prevent the government from buying Bavarian pencils for use in the civil service, instead of pencils of British manufacture, said to be at least equally as good. The speakers in behalf of the resolution were unanimous that the government in its purchases ought to give the preference to British goods.

A resolution was also introduced in favor of restricting the use of foreign pauper labor and to prevent the importation of foreigners to take the place of British workingmen during strikes.

Several delegates spoke on this resolution, the general tone being that while the object arrived at was a good one, the resolution was too sweeping in terms and its adoption would be likely to irritate workingmen on the continent. The resolution was shelved by a vote to adopt the previous question.

POET WHITTIER.

English Comment on the Death of the Writer.

London, Sept. 8.—The Times says regarding the death of Whittier: "It may also be said that what Scott did for Scotland, Whittier did for New England. The most salient features of his verse were those also observable in his personal character—sincerity, simplicity, earnestness and manliness."

The News says:—"Whittier sang to a distinctive New England life as no one ever did before, and since it is going the way of all things, as no one will ever sing it again."

The Chronicle says: "Whittier was the nearest approach to our conception of an American Robert Burns that the new world has given us. The world has lost one of the sweetest lyrist of its saddest wrongs."

The Telegraph says: "Whittier possessed no small portion of Wordsworth's genius. Although inferior to the best work of Bryant and Poe, it is probable that his 'Mogg Megone' and 'Maud Muller' will live as long as 'Thanatopsis' and 'The Raven.'"

The Standard suggests that it was good fortune rather than preeminent merit that secured Whittier an attentive and sympathetic hearing on this side of the Atlantic and adds that in America itself his claims to distinction will be more energetically questioned than here.

THE ASHLEY-HEWITT WEDDING.

Knot Tied at Put-in-Bay Amid a Scene of Rare Splendor.

Put-in-Bay, Sept. 8.—The social event of the season was the marriage at high noon yesterday of Miss Mary Emma Ashley, daughter of Gen. J. M. Ashley, of Toledo, to Mr. Edward Ringwood Cooper Hewitt, son of ex-Mayor Abram S. Hewitt, of New York, at the elegant summer residence of the bride's parents, Put-in-Bay.

The ceremony, which was performed by Dr. Paul Van Dyke, of Northampton, Mass., and Rev. A. G. Jennings, of Toledo, was a slight modification of the Episcopal ritual.

Miss Ashley was a beautiful bride and wore a heavy brocaded satin of the faintest cream. Her gown was a unique combination of Empire and Josephine effects with a high collar, sleeves, and deep flounces of duchess lace. Above the flounce was a garniture of orange blossoms. Her only ornaments were her husband's bridal gifts, a superb heart-shaped amethyst pendant surrounded by diamonds and a richly-carved pearl comb made from designs by the groom. The house was decorated with rare taste and beauty, the ceremony taking place before a miniature floral chapel formed against the wall. One striking effect was made with goldenrod, literally covering the banisters of the staircase, from newel post to top, with their graceful fronts forming the upper surface.

The decorations were in the hands of Mr. Myer, of Lasalle & Koch, of Toledo, and were most striking and graceful.

Immediately after the ceremony the wedding breakfast was ushered in by the passing of a massive silver loving cup. Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt left early in the afternoon in a private yacht for Sandusky, from which place they left for the Thousand Islands, after which they will join a party of friends who are encamped near Charleston, Ont., on the north shore of Lake Superior. Among those present from a distance were: Erskine and Peter Cooper Hewitt and Miss Anna Wilson, of New York; Mrs. General Rice and Miss Mary Rice, of Ottawa; Miss Satia Hyde, of Ann Arbor; Mrs. Marble, of Canton, O.; D. J. Haff, Kansas City; George D. Lord, Boston; John Dart and S. Bender, of Cleveland; Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Woodruff, Mrs. W. W. Bolles and Miss Bolles, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Shoemaker, Mrs. and Miss Hitchcock, Mrs. Cushing and Mr. W. H. Cushing, Mesdames E. D. Libby, W. H. Bellma Powers, D. R. Locke, and E. W. Waite; Mr. and Mrs. C. S. and H. W. Ashley, and Mr. J. M. Ashley, jr.

The bride is the daughter of a millionaire, and the groom, wealthy in his own right, was the favorite grandson of the late Peter Cooper. Both bride and groom are equally noted for their scholarship and simplicity of demeanor. Miss Ashley took her degree at the University of Michigan. In the summer of 1889 she went to Berlin to perfect herself in the study of the German language. There she met Mr. Hewitt as a fellow student. He was pursing a course in chemistry at Berlin when he succumbed to the charms of the clever Ohio girl.

HEAVY LOSS.

Serious Conflagration Reported from Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Sept. 8.—A fire of unknown origin early this morning totally destroyed the big mills owned by the Wm. Arrott estate and badly damaged John Williams' factory, which occupies the entire square bounded by 12th and 13th, Carpenter and Temple streets, causing a loss of not less than $275,000 within an hour.

Jacob Miller, manufacturer of shirts, also occupies a part of the building and Stuart Bros.' cotton goods factory is located on the Temple street side. Both the latter places are completely gutted. The loss on the building, which is nearly covered by insurance, is estimated at $75,000.

FELL FROM A BALLOON.

Parachute Jumpers Come to Grief in the East.

Washington, Sept. 8.—An accident occurred last evening at Riverview, a pleasure resort, a short distance from Washington, which may result in the death of Mrs. Odell, the wife of Prof. R. N. Odell, who together with her husband, was to have made a balloon ascension and parachute leap.

The parachute became detached from the balloon at a distance of 25 feet from the ground, dashing them both to the ground. The knife which is operated by means of a cord and worked by the aeronaut, cut the rope in some manner, probably having become taut.

Mrs. Odell, it is thought, suffered concussion of the spine. The professor was badly shaken up but escaped serious injury.

MONETARY CONFERENCE.

Cholera Has Postponed the Time of Meeting.

Washington, Sept. 8.—The time for the meeting of the international monetary conference has not yet been fixed. It was called for October 1, but has been postponed on account of difficulty of agreeing upon a place of meeting in view of the quarantine so generally established because of the cholera prevailing in Europe.

The statement cabled from London that nothing has been heard by the British government from Secretary Foster on the subject is denied at the state department. It is said that Minister Lincoln was instructed to put himself in communication with the government on the subject at the earliest moment after its organization and that he had had many interviews of the most friendly character with the minister of foreign affairs and the chancellor of the exchequer—Mr. Gladstone and Sir William Vernon Harcourt.

HE WAS A BAD MAN.

Washington, Sept. 8.—John J. Harley, a treasury clerk, has disappeared from Washington leaving a heartbroken wife and family and numbers of anxious creditors.

He paid his devotions to a Chicago woman, but failed to pay the money he borrowed from her under the promise to make her his wife.

As far as known his indebtedness is about $2,000, $500 of which he borrowed of the Chicago lady, who learned of his being a married man in time to save herself from further entanglement.

OFF FOR SEA.

The Cruiser Philadelphia on a Mysterious Mission.

New York, Sept. 8.—The officers of the cruiser Philadelphia, flagship of the North Atlantic station, are at a loss to know what service the navy department has in store for them. The vessel reached here from New London Tuesday.

The lines had hardly been made fast to the wharf in the Brooklyn navy yard before orders were received directing Admiral Gherardi to prepare his ship for sea without delay. Admiral Gherardi said last night that he did not know where the ship would be ordered.

Among the officers there was a well grounded impression that Venezuela was the vessel's destination, but are at a loss to know what sudden turn affairs have taken to necessitate the presence of so many naval vessels in Venezuelan waters.

It is a moral certainty that Candidate Cleveland will not make a stump speech and call it a letter of acceptance.

Mr. Griffin's fool friends do not understand the situation when they say democrats do not want him nominated for congress. They do.

Now that the three pugilistic championships have been decided let the presidential campaign proceed to a finish, Queensberry rules, and no draw.

Dr. George P. Ikert, of East Liverpool, has been nominated by the democrats to succeed the late John G. Warwick in congrss. His election is conceded.

The Chicago Tribune is busily engaged in its periodical work of refuting its own tariff arguments. As Artemus Ward said, they are "amoosin cusses" around the Tribune establishment.

There was danger for a time that the republicans and populists in North Carolina would fuse, thus jeopardizing democratic prospects, but that danger point is about passed. The republicans purpose standing by Benny without any outside help.

If the republican factionists in Toledo think they can make a congressman in the Ninth district by ignoring Ottawa, Wood and Futon in the preliminary work they should proceed with their present sand-bagging program. More and more the impression grows that the next congressman from this district will be a democrat.

The letter of acceptance, so-called, of Candidate Harrison, did not meet the hearty response he might have wished. The longest document of the character ever written, it contains nothing which an ordinary stump speaker couldn't pound over the desk of a district school house till half the crowd would leave and the rest fall asleep. Mr. Harrison's screed contains few ideas, though the words are exceedingly many. The concensus of newspaper opinion, friendly and opposed, is that Mr. Harrison did not do himself or his party justice.

New York newspapers are discovering, as their patrons know, that reckless exposure to danger may be daring, but not commendable enterprise. The sending of reporters to the cholera-quarantined steamers in the harbor furnished "scoops," but exposed the men to infection. Still more reckless, and almost criminal, was the newspaper agency of taking letters and other articles from the steamers to be kept for or forwarded to friends. Just what the health officers seek to avoid is thus done, and while no epidemic of disease may follow the risk is too great for even metropolitan newspaper hustling to undertake.

Evidently the Boston Herald, independent, has not a lofty opinion of the Napoleonic Governor of Ohio. It calls down the tinplate statesman for questioning the statement of Senator John Sherman, who said "It would be impossible to lay a tariff in this country that would yield sufficient revenue without amply protecting American industry," and the Herald adds:

There are Ohioans and Ohioans, and the style illustrated by John Sherman is the kind that history is likely to take into creditable cognizance.

This evidence of rank disloyalty to the Prince of Protection will hardly go unrebuked from the army of understrappers planted by the Governor in various institutions. Here is a chance for Col. Joe Bonner to shout at the front.

OUR MOST PETTED INFANT.

The choicest wrap of Miss Columbia's extravagant wardrobe protects the ducklest little darling, her newest infant, the tin plate industry. The favored of the nursery, the pet gets it all.

What though the black plate is made in Wales, rolled in Wales, the pig tin brought from Wales, and dipped by Welshmen brought from Wales, yet is the product called American tin, and the American consumer is obliged to pay tribute. Great is this system of American infant raising, this new-fangled way which republicans profess to be dead in love with.

THE CHAMPION PUGILIST.

No other topic has so enlisted the attention of the people the past few days as the prize fights of the present week at New Orleans. Men may moralize all they please, the people are interested in a square stand up and knock down fist fight. It may be brutal, but it goes with gladiatorial sports and everybody wants to know all about it, even those who protest against the practice.

To say that Toledo was nearly as much excited to-day over the result of the Corbett and Sullivan fight for the championship as it is over a big election is not stating the case too strongly. The exultation over Corbett's victory and the disappointment over Sullivan's defeat is very observable on the countenances of people you meet on the street. It is the news of the hour, and the Bee prints all the news. To-morrow it will be something else. To-day it is news to print all the news about the Champion James J. Corbett, and it is gratifying to say, with Sullivan, the defeated, that the championship of the world still remains in America.

OUR THREE GLADIATORS.

Three of a kind, all in the same class. Griffin, Ashley and Hamilton.

All in prime condition and of gladitorial parts that catch the sporting eye.

The second, like Professor Sullivan of Boston, may now be somewhat ancient history, having won his laurels in other years. Still, the Governor can smile as sweetly and talk as plausibly as he could twenty years ago. His backers have sand and believe his wind will hold out.

Hamilton may be a little out-classed, because he has not trained sufficiently. He has much confidence in his shape and reputation, however, and has some plucky followers, but to-day he is selling third in the pools.

The dandiest knocker of all is our own Charley Punchem Griffin. His record is long and unbroken, and he can hit harder and oftener, receive less blows and come up smiling oftener than any other pugilistic politician of the age. Though the champion of his class now, he aspires to other and nobler honors, and may yet knock out all other claimants to Congress, to the Governorship, to the United States Senate and to everything else. He is young and active, has a good right arm, a clear eye, is solid on his pins and a winner from way back to eternity.

For this tip no charge is made.

THE GROWTH OF METHODISM.

To its itinerancy, its class system, its broad gauge episcopacy, all thoroughly democratic in character, the Methodist Episcopal church owes its wonderful growth. It is greatest in this country, but it is great the world over, and in missionary work sets an example for all Christendom to follow. John and Charles Wesley, priests of the Church of England, could not have conceived the magnitude of the legacy of churchly worship they left their devoted followers. Leaving their early church forms from reasons of conscience, they nevertheless remained in orders during their life, thus showing respect and reverence for the mother church; but upon the strong fabric their faith builded they established a church of God, the strongest, in the shortest time, of Protestant endeavor.

It is a marvelous story this history of Methodism. The first church edifice of the denomination in the United States was erected in 1768 at a cost of $3,000. In the succeeding 122 years the leaven of Methodism grew into property now valued at $96,723,408. The figures here given are taken from the census bulletin of statistics, just issued by the United States. The mass of figures are worth long study, as they are monuments to the growth of this religion which blazed the path of civilization as the frontier of the nation spread farther and farther from the eastern toward the western ocean.

From one church in 1768 the number has increased to 22,844. From a nominal membership during the revolution of the colonies the number of communicants has multiplied to 2,240,354. These are communicants, only, and in families they represent fully one to four, or 10,000,000 in all—one-sixth of the population of the United States. Indeed the saintly Wesleys deserve canonization in the hearts of grateful followers and in the thoughts of a Christian nation for the great, the migthy work they inaugurated.

Analyzing the census figures still further we find New York first in the number of communicants, 242,492, with Ohio a close second, 240,650. Pennsylvania is third, and Illinois fourth.

In the wealth of church property New York is first $16,944,350, and Pennsylvania second. Ohio is placed third with property valued at $8,749,970.

The seating capacity of the Methodist churches is nearly three times as great as the number of communicants, being 6,302,708—room enough for part of "the rest of the family" and choice seats left for sinners on their way to the "mourners' bench."

Of the 111 conferences and missions, the Ohio conference has the greatest number of churches, 570, and there are three other conferences in this state beside the Ohio—East Ohio, North Ohio and Central Ohio.

The conference of West Virginia is the largest in number of church organizations, 740 in all, though the number of churches in that conference is only 533.

The Philadelphia conference has the largest number of communicants, 61,645. The East Ohio conference is second, with 59,666, and the Ohio conference third, with 58,089.

There are 2,790 counties in the several states and territories, and in 2,205 there are Methodist Episcopal churches. This alone speaks volumes for the system of itineracy and missionary work which supplies an expounder of the Gospel "wherever two or three are gathered together" in His name.

It is not necessary to extend the statistical information. Enough is known and enough here given to show the remarkable growth, development and perfection of the denominational system which John and Charles Wesley and their followers had faith to establish in the new world, in the wilderness which sturdy American citizenship has made the mightiest nation on earth. And in the growth and expansion of the republic the Methodist church has kept pace with and has been at the front.

BARGAIN AND SALE.

Serious Charges Made by a People's Party Organ.

Indianapolis, Sept. 8.—The American Non-Conformist, the people's party organ, said yesterday that it had obtained information through a republican of national reputation that a bargain has been entered into between President Harrison and C. W. Fairbanks, a railroad magnate of this city, whereby Fairbanks is to be made United States senator in consideration of a hundred thousand dollars' contribution to the republican campaign fund. But the democratic gerrymander was in the way of Mr. Fairbanks, and suits have been filed to set the apportionment aside.

THE FOURTH DAY.

Toledo's Exposition Chilled by the Downfall of Rain,

Although a Fair Crowd is at the Grounds.

Mention of Some of the Exhibits—The Cadets' Bicycle Drill—Yesterday's Races—Notes.

With their fine figures, soldierly bearing and brilliant uniforms, a handsomer company of men than the Toledo Cadets cannot be found in the state, and Toledo people need not to be told that the foot and bicycle drills given by them yesterday proved to be one of the most attractive features of the exposition. The maneuvers executed in the foot drill were very complicated, but were performed with such military exactness and precision as to win the admiration of even the critical Grand Army men, of whom there were a large number present.

The drill began at 3 o'clock, and was witnessed by 3,000 people from the grand stand, and several thousand more on the fences and other positions, where a view could be obtained.

Horse races and the pony chariot races were sandwiched between the foot and bicycle drills, the wheel drill coming last. It was an exhibition of such riding as is seldom done even by champions, and considering the short time that the wheels have been in use, the drill was nothing less than wonderful.

The afternoon was almost too cold and damp to be really comfortable, but the crowd was evidently out for enjoyment, and they had it despite the disagreeable weather.

Military day was undoubtedly a huge success, and one of the pleasantest of the week, though this is the day big with fate, to the general public; the little folks think Friday (children's day) the only day, and the cyclers ask you why you go out until Saturday.

At the Grounds To-day.

About 3,000 people braved the elements this morning to take in the exposition, and dripping umbrellas, bangs that wont stay bung, muddy shoes, and in altogether miserable state of things is the result of the ceaseless rain.

There would have been 20,000 people here had the weather been propitious, and the management fully expected that number, but it is useless to expect a crowd to turn out on such a day. Those who are here are pleased with the show and are getting as much enjoyment out of the affair as the dismal day will admit of. It is to be hoped that the weather man can be induced to smile on the children and the cyclers, as the weather he has been dealing out so far is meeting with general disapproval. If to-morrow and Saturday are fair there will be big crowds here, otherwise the Toledo exposition will have been a failure as far as money-making is concerned.

There have been several additions to the exhibits in Main hall this morning.

The Pioneer Home.

The crowds in Main hall flock around this quaint display of the home of long ago. Mrs. Wyloff, of Clyde, O., is running the spinning wheel. She is 84 years of age and as lively and chipper as any 16-year-old maiden on the ground. With snowy curls framing her kindly old face, she is a picture, for which old-fashioned furniture makes an appropriate setting. She is at home with the spinning wheel, spinning wool and flax with equal grace and skill. "In my day," said Mrs. Wyloff, "girls were never idle, neither were boys. I had five brothers and we all knit our own stocking and I wove, dyed and made my own dresses, and my brothers' clothes. But in these days," she continued, "young people would think their parents were very cruel to demand such tasks."

The exhibit belongs to Mrs. J. H. Van Araum, and the heir looms are priceless for their antiquity, some of the articles having been in the family for hundreds of years. Mrs. Van Araum was greatly delighted when Mrs. Wyloff unexpectedly arrived this morning, for the dear old lady attracts more attention than the furniture.

Turned to the Wall.

In Colton & Hickox' display of sporting goods Sullivan is "done up" in a sling, and turned to the wall.

Took the Cake.

The judges on cakes and pastry awarded prizes in that class yesterday afternoon as follows:

Pound cake—First prize, H. Kellogg; second prize, Mrs. J. M. Baldwin.

Jelly (layer) cake—First prize, Mrs. J. W. Nangle; second, Mrs. James L. Watson.

Fruit cake—First prize, H. Kellogg; second, Mrs. J. M. Baldwin.

Sponge cake—First prize, H. Kellogg; second, Mrs. J. M. Baldwin.

Angel food cake—Prize, Mrs. J. W. Nangle.

Marble cake—First prize, H. Kellogg; second, Mrs. J. W. Nangle.

Nut cake—First prize, H. Kellogg; second, Mrs. J. W. Nangle.

Coacanut (layer) cake—First prize, Mrs. J. W. Nangle; second, Mrs. J. M. Baldwin.

Chocolate (layer) cake—First prize, Mrs. J. W. Naugle; second, Mrs. J. M. Baldwin.

White mountain cake—First prize, H. Kellogg; second, Mrs. J. M. Baldwin.

The Old Hen Isn't In It.

The wonderful incubator, which Mr. J. W. Singer, proprietor of the Olentangy poultry yards at Cardington, O., is exhibiting, is pronounced the best in the country, by experienced poultry raisers, who flock to see this successful rival of the old hen. Fifty chickens were hatched out this morning and there will be increases in the poultry yards every day. Three weeks is the alloted time and Mr. Singer says he rarely loses an egg. Four hundred were hatched during the Detroit exposition. The chicks are not taken from the incubator or fed until 24 hours after they are out of the shell.

The Aeronaut Treed.

When making the descent yesterday, Miss Nellie La Mont, the pretty little lady who is making the balloon ascensions, was caught in a tree and quite seriously bruised. She is all right to-day, however, and made a successful ascension.

The Midgets.

This string of tiny ponies are not receiving the attention they deserve, although the crowd goes wild over the chariot races. The midgets are confined in a tent and are well worth the trifling admission asked, being the smallest and prettiest ponies in the world.

The Festive Fakir.

The snake charmer, glass eater, and sword swallower are each and all in their glory, and gather in many skekels from the unwary. The merry-go-round has a rival in the pony ring, the children preferring a real live horse.

The only blemish on an otherwise fine and thoroughly respectable entertainment is the float containing the petrified woman, where "only men, and boys over 10 years" are admitted. This is a disgrace and should be abolished.

Some of the Prizes Awarded

Burgess Bros. captured many of the premiums, they having 24 head of horses exhibited.

Mr. Crout gave excellent satisfaction as a judge. The classes comprise imported coach horses, match teams, roadsters, saddle horses, ponies, farm teams and sweepstakes. Chas. M. Roe is superintendent of the entries.

The swine was judged yesterday by Mr. Wynn.

The Races Yesterday.

The threatening weather had undoubtedly much to do with the slim attendance at the races yesterday. Shortly after 3 o'clock it began a drizzling rain, and it kept it up during the afternoon so that the track got very heavy and made it necessary to postpone the final heat in the last event. The track to-day is in good shape, and unless it rains there will be good racing this afternoon.

While preparing for the third heat in the 2:34 trot, Antinillo was run into and Jim Lavelle, her driver, was thrown to the ground and badly bruised. The sulky was smashed by the force of the collision, but the mare was given her place, as the accident was unavoidable.

The unfinished 3-minute trot for 2-year-olds, carried over from the previous day, was the first event. Redflame had it her own way, though in the final struggle down the home stretch Flashlinght pushed her hard. Following is the summary:

Flashlight	3	3	2	1	2
Redflame	2	1	1	2	1
View	1	2	3	3	3

Time, 2:52 1-2. 2:51 1-2. 2:50 1-2, 2:49 1-2, 2:51 1-4.

In the 2:34 trot there were 14 entries and 12 starters. This is the largest field that ever passed under the wire on that track. Five attempts were made before the horses scored. It was a pretty sight as they turned on to the quarter stretch.

M. W. took the lead onto the back stretch and was never headed. The 12 horses were strung in a long line as they turned onto the home stretch, and Silver Mine and Tom Thorn had a sharp struggle for second place. M. W. won the second heat at her ease, but to the surprise of everyone, in the third, Maud C., forged ahead and won by two lengths. M. W. won the fourth and the race. Summary:

There were 10 entries for this race and eight starters. Mr. Wheeler, who is one of the ablest starters in the country, was obliged to call down several of the drivers before he could get the horses to score. Maud McGregor, who sold favorite in the pools, won the first heat without a struggle. In some singular way Hugh A. took second, and after that Maud had everything her own way. Summary:

W. E. Cawood's Exhibit.

W. E. Cawood, the popular jeweler, has a brilliant exhibit at his store, No. 427 Summit street, which no one should fail to see. People visiting the exposition should make the most of an opportunity and take advantage of his great reduction sale. Mr. Cawood knows how to please the public, and can show a stock of diamonds, watches, etc., which is unequaled at the same prices at any other place. Goods purchased at this store cannot fail to give satisfaction. Read his adds in other parts of the paper.

A Fine Exhibit of Stationery.

Ernest Reeves & Co., have a fine exhibit of stationery, etc., which is only a shadow of what his Summit street store contains. Mr. Reeves is one of Toledo's enterprising business men, and has a first-class stock of material to work with. Books and stationery are his principle features.

A Decided Novelty.

The St. John Specialty Co. are making a very interesting display of their Toledo Adjustable Shade, for electric, gas or lamp light. There were over two thousand sold the first month they were placed on the market. This exhibit will interest everybody. Don't miss it.

Stevens Filter Co.

This company have this season surpassed any previous effort to display their water filters. This display includes a large filter at the front of Main hall, which practically shows the thirsty crowd what their filters can do in transforming muddy Maumee water into a delightfully inviting beverage. Mr. Callard, the genial manager of the company, has charge of the exhibit.

The Toledo Business College.

A thorough business education combined with a knowledge of stenography and typewriting are the stepping stones to success, and enable the youth of to-day to grasp more readily with the vicissitudes of life and to feel the pulse of the public with whom he must compete for the success he would win. That a business training is essential to success, has been shown by the victories won in the battles of life by our great men. And that the public are fast recognizing the fact has been evidenced at the exposition this week by the great interest shown in the exhibit of the Toledo Business College, which stands pre-eminently at the head of institutions of learning of this character in this section of the country. Mr. M. H. Davis, the principal is a man of strong personal character, a graduate of several of the foremost institutions of learning in the United States, and each year witnesses the school grow stronger in public favor.

THE W. & C. EXHIBIT.

The fine piano and organ exhibit of The Whitney & Currier Co. is the center of attraction in the main building, and the company are booking many orders for their superb pianos. Knabe, Boardman & Gray, Sohmer and other makes of instruments are shown in great profusion of styles, and this enterprising and reliable company fully merit the success they are having.

The miniature Pastime, the work of young Mr. Cummerow, and which was for some time on exhibition in the show window of Reeves' book store, is attracting a good deal of attention, in the Main hall.

The moose and elk races are always enthusiastically received. Everybody admires the elk. It is a beautiful animal. But the moose—well nature must have been in a terrible humor, when this freakish thing was created.

Two old battle-scarred veterans were watching the military manouvers yesterday, when one of them remarked: "If ever them young dudes have to face a rebel army, they will lose most of their pretty looks, but they'll learn a heap more about war."

Bissel & Dodge have the machinery going to-day, and the electrical apparatus all in goor working order. They have electrical goods of all descriptions for display and sale. The tiny incandescent globes for floral decorations are very pretty.

The elk-moose race would be all right, but there is too much cruelty connected with it to be enjoyable. The elk came in yesterday bleeding at the mouth and seemingly half dead. His driver beat the animal unmercifully and he should have been arrested for cruelty to animals.

Owing to the severe fall which Miss Lamont experienced yesterday, she did not make the balloon ascension to-day, she, acting under the advice of the association, who are anxious to avoid accidents. Mr. Jas. Crockett, an inmate of the Toledo Insane asylum, called at the Bee office on the grounds this morning. He asked for old-time friends on the Bee staff, and incidentally mentioned that the cause of his incarceration was the fact that wicked people wanted to get hold of his millions, and had him captured and run out here on an underground railroad. "But," said Mr. Crockett, "they laugh best who laugh last, and when I get these people where I want them, I'll have my money, and put them where they belong."

ABSOLUTELY PURE

CHOLERA IN 1832.

Some Interesting Reminiscences and Valuable Hints.

I do not write to compete for a premium, for I am satisfied that, with our present knowledge of the cause and cure of the pestilence that truly "walketh in darkness," nothing can be said that should be rewarded with a prize. I am sure we know as little now of the one or the other as we did sixty years ago. In the light of the official reports from Russia and Germany, it does not appear that the percentage of the mortuary list is less than in 1832, when the scourge ravaged this country. The cholera may visit the states this fall, or next summer, in spite of all our sanitary precautions; nevertheless, the quarantine and the cleaning up are imperative measures—and duty.

Should there be a visitation, the writer begs to make the following suggestions: Let no one change, materially, his accustomed habits of life. Eat and drink as you have been accustomed to; take free exercise in the open air, but not to exhaustion; take your wonted rest and sleep at night; by no means take any alcoholic drinks into the stomach, unless you are an habitual drinker; if that has been your habit, then take light potions and take them regularly; any thing not to change your established habits. But above all other things be courageous, if possible. Do not fret and fear. Fear is the most depressing passion, it paralizes both the moral and physical forces, and the possibilities, and subordinates the powers of resistance, thus throwing open the gates of the citadel to the ingress of the destroyer.

The primary cause of cholera is not known. The germ theory may be true, but its truth has not been proven. It is not possible to determine whether the bacilli found in the discharges and in the intestines of cholera victims were the primary cause of the malady, or the products of its ravages to produce the ravages found in the alimentary canal they must be introduced through the stomach—must be swallowed with the food and drink—have the bacilli ever been found in water or any variety of aliment.

It was Dr. Daniel Drake, of Cincinnati, I believe, who first propounded the germ theory—he was the author of a volume on cholera. But theories are cheap—it is easy to theorize, and sometimes pleasant; but we want demonstrations. Many facts have been known in regard to the travel and development of cholera that makes is difficult to accept the bacillus theory; and yet we dare not discard it without very much more light is thrown upon the matter by scientific investigation. But this paper has another mission. The writer feels no motive to wade into the dark, or to try to lift the veil that abler pens have failed to lift. Therefore we are compelled to hold up in front of the acknowledged fact, that cholera is indeed the "pestilence that walketh in darkness."

The first appearance of this previously unknown disease in the United States was in 1831. It traveled by the way of Canada, crossing the lake and reaching New York; thence afterwards reaching Cincinnati and most of the towns along the banks of Ohio; also reaching some points as much as a hundred miles inland. But it was one year later, viz: in the summer of 1832, that it assumed its most deadly form. There were some weeks when the number of deaths in Cincinnati went above two hundred daily; and the population then was less than one-fourth of what it is in 1892. In 1833 the city had a lighter visitation, but still a great mortality. And while a great portion of Ohio escaped entirely, it nevertheless spread more to the lakes. From 1833 to 1848 the disease was scarcely heard of. Then, in 1848, 1850, 1852 and 1854 several points in Ohio suffered greatly. Among these may be mentioned Columbus, Toledo, Sandusky, Lancaster and other places; and still later, in 1870, there was some cholera. There was likewise a good deal of the disease in Cincinnati in 1845 and 1846. Since 1870, to the present, there has been no more than sporadic cases reported—cholerine, our modern authorities would denominate the cases.

But the disease was by no means confined to cities and towns. It appeared in the rural districts; in some places with fearful mortality. In such cases it would be hard to conceive of the bacilli traveling long distances through the country, and that, too, where no human intercourse had taken place. Several such instances came under my personal notice. I knew of several deaths in Franklin and Fairfield counties, in which no intercourse between the farm and the town had taken place.

Through the bluegrass regions of Kentucky, embracing Bourbon, Fayette and Harrison counties, during the summer of 1832, the percentage of deaths from cholera exceeded that of Cincinnati at the worst stage; and physically that region is unsurpassed in the world for surface sanitary conditions. The surface is rolling and rocky; and the water is supplied by cold crystal springs. I was shown a grave-yard, by my uncle, in 1838, where there were over 300 cholera graves. The nearest point of the district to Cincinnati is about eighty miles. It was before the railroads era, and there had been no intercourse with the city whatever, as I was told by the people. In two or three instances entire families were swept away; and in one of eight persons, two children of five and seven years were left. There has been no cholera there since.

In August, 1852, and when there was cholera in Columbus, a young man—a carpenter—finding himself unwell, walked through to Lancaster, 30 miles, merely passing through the latter place and tarrying a couple of hours in the east for rest, then to his friends, two miles out. The next day he died of cholera, and immediately the disease broke out, and there were 30 deaths. That the disease is in some way propagated by persons and things coming from infected districts can not be questioned; but still we are unable to account for its appearance in the country, far away from the seat of infection.

Recurring to the two old people—the Somerses, spoken of in my former paper—of New Carlisle; how could the bacilli reach them half a mile distant, and when they had not for one minute been off their premises; that is, if we are to be held to that theory? Is it not best if we say at once that we do not know; and then, if we are attacked, call the doctor the first moment and do the best we can?

CITIZENS ARRESTED.

The Toledo Officials Guarding Against Cholera.

A Tenement Ordered Torn Down—The Presque Isle Quarantine—Other Matters.

The health department continues in its work of cleaning up, and even if cholera don't strike the country the scare will have been the means of accomplishing much good.

The Harley tenement on the lane back of Superior street, between Lagrange and Locust, has been ordered demolished and the property cleaned up.

People who fail to comply with the instructions of the health department are being arrested irrespective of person and made to feel that it is for the general good that everybody take an interest in the cleaning up movement.

George Mersing was arrested this morning for violating the health ordinance, inasmuch as he had not made sewer connections on his property at 2104 Canton avenue.

Mars Nearing, president of the First National bank, was brought down to the station this morning and his attention called to certain violations of the health ordinance existing on his property at 312, 314 and 316 Summit street.

J. N. Gloyd, of 110 West Bancroft street, was also arrested. They were released by order of the police clerk, and things will be fixed up satisfactorily.

This goes to show that people must comply with the regulations. A stitch in time saves nine, and it is for the general good that the greatest possible precaution be taken.

After to-morrow the lake front with regard to the entrance of vessels in the Toledo harbor will be quarantined.

Dr. Fisher had expected to enforce the quarantine from to-day, but this morning found that it would be impossible to complete necessary arrangements so soon.

This morning he chartered the steamboat Wilson. If the state health officer concurs, he will have the boat stationed at Presque Isle and go from there out into the bay and meet vessels.

Dr. Fisher informs the Bee that the state is terribly in earnest in this matter and the quarantine will be rigidly enforced. Every vessel coming into the harbor will be stopped and inspected. Any crew refusing to submit to this inspection will be arrested at once. The health officer will be authorized by the government to make any arrests he may deem necessary.

Dr. Fisher has special appointment as quarantine master at Toledo.

The railroad trains will not be watched at present, but if such action becomes necessary at this point it will be taken.

Y. M. C. A. DIRECTORS.

Secretary Smith Resigns and Mr. Turner Will Act.

The Gymnasium Will Be Fitted Up Wiht Baths—The New Building Fall Work and the Prospectus.

A special meeting of the Y. M. C. A. directors was held last evening, at which the resignation of Willard Smith, as general secretary, was submitted and accepted, to take effect on or before October 1, at Mr. Smith's pleasure.

Mr. Smith goes to Albany to assume the duties of secretary of the association in that place.

Percy Turner, the efficient director of the junior department, will be acting secretary for a time at least. Mr. Turner would make an excellent general secretary. He is in touch with all the boys growing up, and his untiring work in the past argues well for what he might do in the future.

The directors talked new building a little, but retired the matter to its usual place on the table. It was decided to put about $300 in the present gymnasium immediately. Baths, showers, etc., will be erected at once, and they will be the best that can be obtained.

The prospectus of the association for the approaching winter season will be issued soon. It will give to members advantages never before approached.

ATTEMPTED MURDER.

Springfield, Mass., Sept. 8.—Daniel Gill, a city employe, living on Ferry street, tried to murder his wife yesterday by cutting her throat with a pocket knife. He was under the influence when he attacked her and but for the interference of several women would have killed her. The woman will probably recover.

CUT BY A NEGRO.

Boston, Sept. 8.—Isaac O'Neill, Weir, the ex-featherweight champion, Was badly cut in the face yesterday by a colored man named Leston, who had spoken disparagingly of Sullivan and aroused the "spider's" resentment. Leston was arrested.

PINKHAM'S . PROVERBIAL . PHILOSOPHY . . .

A woman best understands a woman's ills.

At the age of fifty, Mrs. Pinkham publicly commenced her great work of helping such women as could not help themselves. Having devoted her life to the study of female complaints she discovered that a large proportion of the diseases of women have a common origin and may have a common cure. That cure she created, and named Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and how honest was her purpose and trustworthy her judgment is plainly indicated by thousands of such thankful letters as this:

DEAR MADAM. — . . . Would that I could induce all suffering women to give your Compound a fair trial. I must say to you that it is an invaluable medicine. It has been very beneficial to myself and daughter. — MRS. S. BLAIR, Roanoke City, Va.

Druggists sell it as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00.

An illustrated book, entitled "Guide to Health and Etiquette," by Lydia E. Pinkham, is of great value to ladies. We will present a copy to anyone addressing us with two 2-cent stamps.

PHILOSOPHY.

The sign is bad when folks commence
A-findin' fault with Providence
And balkin' 'cause the earth don't shake
At ev'ry prancin' step they take.
No man is great till he can see
How less than little he would be
Ef stripped to self and stark and bare
He hung his sign out anywhere.
My doctern is to lay aside
Contentions and be satisfied.
Jest do your best, and praise er blame
That follers, that counts jest the same.
I've allus noticed great success
Is mixed with troubles more or less,
And it's the man who does the best
That gets more kicks than all the rest.

ROBBIE'S CANING.

I have just returned home from an evening at the play, or rather from visiting my friends, the Robinsons, which is much the same thing. If you don't mind my pipe, I will picture you the drama. Robinson, an amiable man, save when his shoe-lace breaks, sat alone and glum in his study. His teeth were clinched, his face was pale and he stared hard at the fire. He welcomed me with an effort and then forgot me. He is a business man, and I am not; so I concluded that stocks and bonds had fallen or risen (or whatever it is these things do to plunge those who know what they are in despair). I tried the drawing-room, and there found the two little girls crying and Mrs. Robinson on the couch with her face to the wall. This was serious, and seemed to me to mean at the least a "corner" in stocks. It was not stocks, however, my hostess told me from behind a handkerchief; it was Bobby. Had not her husband shown me "the letter?"

Bobby is the heir, aged 7, and I concluded from his mother's tragic tones that he had run off to be a pirate or an engine-driver, leaving a written statement to that effect on his dressing-table. I softly withdrew from the drawing-room and returned to Robinson, who, with a trembling arm, handed me "the letter." It was from the master of a school to which Bobby goes by train daily, except during the bird-nesting season, when other matters claim his attention. The letter read thus:

Dear Sir—I regret to have to apprise you of the fact that I had to-day to cane your son severely. He is the youngest boy I have ever caned, but his delinquencies have of late been so frequent that no other course was open to me. This communication will doubtless cause you pain, but the punishment will have a beneficial effect, not only on him, but on the other boys of his age, whose leader in mischief he has been. They will no longer make a hero of one whom they have seen publicly chastised. The disgrace of the punishment, indeed, is greater than the punishment itself. That Robert may feel his shame more keenly I have read this letter to him and he shall be the bearer of it to you.

"And where is Bobby at present?" I asked, when I had read this terrible letter.

"Crying his eyes out in the nursery, no doubt," answered Robinson. "Of course I should have him here, but I can't face him—I can't face him. I don't blame his master, but—. My dear friend, think of it! The youngest boy ever caned in the school! The marks won't wear off his hands for a week, and think of his agony of mind every time he looks at them! Bobby is a sensitive boy, otherwise I should not take it so much to heart."

"Why not bring him here," I said, "and tell him that if he turns over a new leaf all will be forgotten?"

"Forgotten! How can I expect him to believe that? I know that if I had ever been caned in my school-days I could not have got over the shame for years. Besides—"

"Besides what?"

"I must not seem to take his part against his master, who is, I know, a most conscientious man. No, Bobby must bear the disgrace. But that does not make me feel less keenly for him. My hands, I assure you, are tingling as if I had been caned myself."

I found the two little girls still moaning at the drawing-room window—the younger lest Bobby should die, and the other because his friends would tell their sisters, who could never again be expected to esteem the name of Robinson.

Mrs. Robinson was for the moment not on speaking terms with Robinson, because he seemed to think that Bobby should continue to go to "such a school." If Bobby had misconducted himself surely the blame lay with a master who did not understand that he was a boy who could best be ruled by kindness. She had never had the least trouble with Bobby. No, he was not in the house. He had run out immediately after delivering the letter, and she had searched for him everywhere in vain. His pride had been broken. He would never be the same boy again. He was afraid to be looked at. He was no doubt hiding somewhere in the cold night; and he had not even on his great coat, and he would catch his death of cold.

"If he does, mamma," asked the elder girl, brightening, "will the master be hanged? And, oh, do you think we could get tickets?"

The night was dark, so we lit a lantern, and set off to look for the unhappy Bobby. At last we found him—in Mr. Mackinnon's stable. We looked through crevices in the woodwork, and this is what we saw:

Bobby, in tremendous spirits, was the center of a group of envious and admiring youths, some of them school-fellows, others ragged lads of the village. If they began to brag, Bobby stopped them short with, "That isn't nothing; you didn't never get caned."

"Yes, I did, though," insisted one.

"Let me see your hand," retorted Bobby. "Oh ho! he won't; and 'cause there's not no marks on it."

"Let me see your hands again, Bobby."

Bobby held out his hands as proudly as if they contained a diamond.

"By gum! I say, Bobby, come and play with me to-morrow."

"Let me walk beside you, Bobby, and I'll give you my crossbow. It's broke, but—"

"Bobby, I'm the one you like best, ain't I?"

"I'm the youngest he ever licked?" cried Bobby in a transport of delight. He began to strut up and down the stable.

"Well, then, you needn't bounce about it like that."

"So would you bounce if it had been you."

"I'll be caned to-morrow."

"So will I, and then I'll be as good as Bobby."

"No, you won't," thundered Bobby. "Though you was all caned twelve times twelve is a hundred and forty-four, I would always be the first, I would. I'm the youngest he ever caned! So would you bounce if you was the youngest he ever caned."

"But, Bobby—"

"Look here, you chaps," broke in the hero of the day, "I amn't not to be called Bobby any more. You'll have to call me Robinson now. He called me Robinson when he caned me."

"Gum!"

"And, what's more, I'm the youngest he ever—"

The other Robinson here retired with a hopeless look on his face. Mrs. Robinson seemed less humbled. I came home reflecting.—Harper's Monthly.

THEY SURPRISED HIM.

When Jack Was Away the Girls Fixed Up His Room so That It Was "Just Too Lovely."

Away on his vacation was Jack, and while he was gone the dear girls thought it would be a perfectly sweet idea to fix up his room. It was a rather demoralized looking apartment from a feminine point of view, but regarded through masculine orbs it was just about right and perfectly comfortable.

But the girls wanted to surprise brother Jack.

So they invaded the sanctum one day and transformed it. They threw out the collection of old pipes on the mantel and turned Pauline Hall's picture to the wall. They gave Jack's old slippers to the janitor and tied pale blue cushions on his leather chair. They painted forget-me-nots on his boxing gloves and put a drapery of flowered chintz over the collection of photographs which adorned his cabinet. They tied bows on everything from the coal scuttle to the picture nails, and hung spiky ornaments on the gas jet with baby blue ribbon. They burned up a collection of newspaper clippings which Jack had taken five years to accumulate and they decorated the face of his shaving glass with a spray of convolvulus.

They embroidered tender little sentiments and stuck them all over regardless-ly—"A Friend in Need" on the soap dish, "Think of Me" on the liquor stand, and "Sweets to the Sweet" on the shoe bag.

Then they stood off and admired it.

Too Lovely!

It was too lovely for anything!

Then Jack came home and they watched him to see how he would take it.

He looked about him in a dazed sort of way first and put his hand to his forehead.

"What is this for?" he said in a hoarse voice, touching a small fluffy pincushion which stood on the floor.

"Why, that's a footstool, Jack. When you're reading you can put your feet on it and be just as comfortable!"

"What's that wedding cake doing over there in the fender?"

"That's not a wedding cake, it's your old cuspidor. We decorated it with Valenciennes lace and white ribbon. Don't you think it's cute?"

"Where have you taken the bed?"

"You're sitting on it, you great goose; we've rigged it up as an Oriental divan. You'll have to take down the Japanese umbrella and the lanterns every night before you go to bed. It's too sweet, isn't it?"

"But I can't do without a washstand."

"Why, you dear boy, you just loop this curtain one side, remove the vases and be careful of this swinging ornament, and there you are."

"Is that a music box over the desk?"

"Well, the idea! That's only the boot-jack. We stuck the shoe horn to it and gilded them, and now you can keep matches in it."

"Say, got any brandy in the house?"

"Why, yes. Are you ill?"

"Well, I do feel a little rocky; but say, before you go, what's this wriggling collection of bue snakes over the bed?"

"That's an illuminated motto. Can't you read it?"

"No, blessed if I can. What is it?"

"Why, it's just as plain as day—'God Bless This Flat.' It will hang right over your head every night!"

Then the strong man buried his head in an old rose cushion with Nile green bows and wept like a boy.—New York Herald.

LITERATURE AND MEATS.

The young lady was evidently more accustomed to visit book stores than meat markets; and she was excessively absent-minded.

"I've really forgotten what mamma told me to get," she said with a confused little laugh, and a helpless glance about the shop where the various kinds of meat were exposed.

"Your ma gets lamb some Tuesdays," said the butcher, by the way of suggestion.

"There!" exclaimed the young lady, "I've been trying all the morning to recall the name of the editor of a certain magazine, and you've mentioned it. It's funny I couldn't think of Mrs. Lamb. I knew the name as well as I know my own. I'm ever so much obliged to you."

She was going out, but she stopped when the butcher ahemmed in his throat and asked if it was lamb she wanted.

"Yes," she said, "Mrs. ——— O! You mean did mamma want lamb. N-no. I don't think she did. Dear! I'm so forgetful. What are those things that your boy is doing up?"

"Those? Them are lights. Some people like e'm, but I guess your mother wouldn't want 'em, hardly."

"I suppose not," said the fair customer in a voice that indicated a far-away mind. "I do just think," she continued, speaking more to herself than to the butcher, "that Barrie's stories of the Auld Lichts are the sweetest things!"

"Lights ain't so terrible sweet," said the butcher. "Mebbe it's sweetbreads your ma wants—or a nice soup bone, perhaps."

"I don't suppose you have time to read many books," she said, thoughtfully.

"Well, no'm, to tell the truth, I don't."

"What you said reminded me of Allen's 'What's Bred in the Bone.' It's very good, I think. Are those spring chickens hanging in the window?"

"No'm; those are Philadelphia capons."

"There!" cried the young lady, with an expression of delight, "that's what mamma wanted. You may send six of them. She called them Philadelphia squabs, but I suppose they are the same thing."—Detroit Free Press.

DOROTHY'S PRAYER.

Little Dorothy was tired, oh, so tired, as she knelt at her mamma's knee and tried to say her prayers, as she did every night. She was so tired that her dear little head was heavy' and the lights made blurs before her eyes and the room seemed going in a whirl like a merry-go-round.

"Now," said her mother when she had said her prayers, "ask God to bless grandpa and grandma, Aunt Susie and Uncle Will, mamma and papa and little brother."

"Mamma," asked Dorothy, very gravely, "do you think God would mind very much if I was to just lump the family to-night?"

Her mother told her that she must complete her prayer as she always did, and the heavy head nodded from side to side as she tried to say reverently:

"Bless—gran'pa — gran'ma — Aunt Susie—uncle—oh, mamma, I'm so sleepy, and God knows the rest better'n I do."

And, climbing into her little white bed, Baby Dorothy went to sleep with never a thought whether she wakened here or there. And the mother, watching her tranquil slumbers, felt sure that God did know the rest and had Dorothy safe in His keeping.—Detroit Free Press.

MR. PETERS COMPLAINT.

The meanest man I ever seen lives right next door to me.
He came to live in Mrytleville, I think, in eighty-three.
He'd been a merchant all his life in Boston or New York,
I can't remember which it was; his line was mostly pork.
He'd made a fortune bringin' pigs from out the wooly west,
And now he'd come to settle down 'nd give himself a rest.

He had six daughters and a boy—a college lad, they said—
And my, the airs them gals put on! They acted real high bred.
They wouldn't look at one of us; but we—we didn't care!
We'd laugh right out when they'd come by, their heads up in the air;
And our revenge we allers got when 't came to market day,
For all the eatables they bought we made 'em roundly pay.

We charged 'em sixty cents for eggs; for milk we ast 'em ten;
And beets 'nd veg'tables went up to where they'd never been.
And we—we grinned, and sort o' said, "Be snobbish as you please,
We'll charge you for it when you come to buy your beans and peas."
And so it went for nigh four years without a break or hitch,
And all us farmers round about was feelin' pretty rich.

But one day that old skinflint said as how he thought he'd try
To raise his eggs and milk himself, his oats 'nd beans 'nd rye.
And blame me if he didn't! Spiled the market for our stuff
By eatin' what he'd raised himself; 'nd if he had enough,
By Jimmy, he'd send it out by freight to friends in town,
Which brought the total profits of the farmers' business down.

And that's why we all hate him! Just his meanness! Ain't it mean
To spend four dollars good hard cash for one small Lima bean,
When you've a neighbor that don't ask no more than four or five
Per cent. above the market price for all the beans alive?
And ain't it mean to spend a pile to raise your own green peas,
When what you've paid for profits went to give your neighbor ease?

I know that feller pays at least a dollar ten a peck
For all the oats he raises, and I seen a single check
For sixty dollars that he paid to get a bag o' seed,
That when it grew would yield about two dollars' worth of feed.
I wish the boys would vote to send me down to Washington:
I'd call upon the gover'ment to see what could be done.

It's high time farmers got some sort of adderquate return
For all the taxes they pays out; 'nd I'll take pains to learn
If any city snob 's a right to come 'nd use his gold
To take the bread out of our mouths, 'nd treat us stiff 'nd cold;
And if I couldn't make a law to cure this rank abuse,
I'd raise a dollar mortgage on my farm 'nd then vamoose!

Boys are stronger than girls from birth to the eleventh year; then girls become superior physically to the seventeenth year, when the tables are again turned and remain so. From November to April children grow very little, and gain no weight; from April to July they gain in height, but lose in weight, and from July to November they increase greatly in weight, but not in height.

According to French papers arrangements are about completed for the erection of a monument to Theophrast Renaudot, the founder of journalism in France. Both the Paris council and the general council of the Seine department have granted sums of money for the purpose. Jules Claretie is the chairman of the committee which has the project in charge, and Alfred Beucher has been chosen as sculptor. Theophrast Renaudot, who is to be honored, was born in Loudun, in 1575. He studied medicine. After practicing his profession for a time in his native place he was called to Paris by Cardinal Richelieu in 1625. There he established labor bureaus, loan-houses, free hospitals and other institutions which made him popular among all classes of the people. On May 30, 1631, Louis XIII. gave him the "privilege of printing and selling the news and stroles of what has happened and what may happen in and outside of the kingdom." The first Gazette appeared on the evening of the same day. The future monument is to adorn the Flower market, where the former editor once had his office.

A SEE-SAW OF FISH.

An Old Timer Has to Let One Bass Go in Order to Keep the Other.

About ten days ago the writer, while out fishing with a friend, witnessed a performance which was about as amusing to the spectators as it was provoking to the person most concerned in the affair. Mr. Bare and I were returning home from a trip to the rifles when we espied 'Squire McNeil, an old veteran fisherman of this place, busily engaged in fishing for chubs.

As is his usual custom when out of bait, the 'Squire had pulled up a grass patch, leaving his baited hooks trailing out from the stern of the boat, while he went on about the business of securing more bait. Just as we were passing by, a respectable distance, and had said good morning and "what luck," two large bass tacked the two lines and were off before the 'Squire had time to wink; whr-r-r-r-r, whr-r-r-r-r sang out the two eels, up got the Squire with a rod in each hand and trying to keep both lines taut by a graceful see-saw movement of the body, which must have been acquired on the dancing floor years ago.

Well, as a matter of course, one rod had to be dropped; this was done and the fish was soon free. The other bass had by this time sought the kindly shelter of some rocks, snagging the line badly, and it was with considerable difficulty that the fish was finally landed, and found to be a two-pounder. The 'Squire is certain that the bass lost was by far the larger of the two, but just why he did not hold on to him he is not able to explain. We were not near enough to help the 'Squire with his fish, nor were we close enough to hear any "unilligant" language. The 'Squire says there was none used; he didn't have time.—Forest and Stream.

The definition of "A Friend" that took the prize in a late contest conducted by a London journal was: "The first person who comes in when the whole world goes out."

DAYS OF DEATH.

Cholera Infantum Rages Like an Epidemic.

Infants Dying From Want of Proper Food.

How to Preserve the Lives of the Babies.

Boon Within the Reach of Every Family.

The Good That Follows the Use of Lactated Food.

"Infants are suffering frightfully in these days," said a physician to a Bee man yesterday.

"July and August were fatal months for children and the death rate from cholera infantum keeps up during September.

"Cholera infantum, under which title many cases of indigestion are reported, is a preventable disease," and he showed the reporter a recent grouping of statistics, from which it appeared that this disease was preventable by the use of lactated food.

Hundreds of physicians prescribe this lactated food for their little patients at the beginning of summer, with the assurance that the dread disease will not appear in that family.

Thousands of mothers have testified to the fact that lactated food has done what nothing else could do—saved the lives of their little ones.

No better evidence can be offered of its superiority than the many instances in which fretful, peevish and sleepless babies, as soon as put upon lactated food, sleep all night and wake up laughing. The happy change, physicians say, is solely due to the superior nourishing and satisfying qualities of this food.

It must be borne in mind that lactated food is so inexpensive that it is within the reach of every family. For 25 cents a mother can buy a package that contains enough to make ten pints of cooked food.

The most skilled specialists in children's diseases have publicly advised mothers that to be on the safe side they should use lactated food until their children are old enough to come to the table. It strengthens the weak ones and keeps the well babies strong.

DOCKSTADER COMING.

A Toledo Actress With the Pulse of New York.

The Attractions at the Wonderland —Next Week at the People's— The Kentucky Girl and Ship Ahoy.

It is not necessary to say more in commendation of Lew Dockstader's minstrels who will be at Wheeler's opera house next Monday evening, than to mention the names of the leading members of the company. The comedians and entertainers are Lew Dockstader, Geo. Powers, Frank Dumont, Falke and Semons, the Columbia quartet, John C. Harrington, Blocksom and Burns, and William Rowe. There are also eight cultivated vocal soloists, a large, well-trained chorus and superb band and orchestra. Mr. Dockstader offers "Ward McAllister" as his new specialty and one of his latest and best songs entitled "Before and After" is one of the many big hits in the first part. At the 'Knickerbocker Club" the merry Lew selects one or more impersonations of the political leaders, including Harrison, Blaine, Hill, Cleveland, Depew, Reid and others, with original songs and speeches.

A Toledo Actress.

A charming Toledo actress, Miss Stella Mayhen (Mrs. Burt Sprague), leaves Saturday to join the Pulse of New York company at Grand Rapids, Mich. She will be a valuable addition to this excellent company. Miss Mayhen commenced her professional career when a mere child and has won for herself an enviable reputation. She is a talented actress and a lady of many accomplishments.

The Bill at the Wonderland.

There are numerous attractions at the Wonderland this week. Marquis, the handsome horse with mane and tail 16 feet long, is the leading card in the curio hall. Lewis and Paul are doing some wonderful things with handcuffs. They have been rightly dubbed detective defiers. In the theater an excellent performance is given by the Fremont's All Star New York Vaudeville, a very clever organization, the principal stars being the Fremonts, Lottie and Charles, Miss Jessie Giles, vocalist; the Johnson trio lightning change artists and Kamosha, the lady magician who comes from Crystal Palace, London.

At the People's.

Sallie Hasson in the Kentucky Girl is giving excellent satisfaction at the People's patrons. Next week the attraction at the People's will be Lost in New York, the sensational comedy-drama, which will be put on with the following people in the cast: Ogden Stevens, H. H. Horton, W. H. Pendergast, Joe Coyne, Hugh Spencer, Robert Escot, James E. Fish, E. A. June, Miss Henrietta Scott, Miss Lilly Sinclair, Miss Adelaide Colton, Miss May Sutro, Miss Alice Spencer, and Baby Gertrude.

Ship Ahoy.

The comic opera, Ship Ahoy, is drawing large audiences at Wheeler's. The opera contains many bright musical hits and is giving general satisfaction. Miss Mahen as Lullu Lalla, is making the hit of the piece. There will be performances every evening this week and Saturday afternoon.

Must not be confounded with common cathartic or purgative pills. Carter's Little Liver Pills are entirely unlike them in every respect. One trial will prove their superiority.

CROUNSE ARRIVES.

Washington, Sept. 8.—Assistant Secretary Crounse left Washington for Nebraska on the 11 o'clock train this morning. He will at once take the stump for the republican state ticket, of which he is the head.

ESCAPED FROM JAIL.

Stratford, Ont., Sept. 8.—P. C. Failing, the notorious forger, who was extradited from St. Paul some time ago and who has been in jail here awaiting trial, escaped last night. He is still at large.

Do not fail to see the Gendron Cycle Cyclorama at the Fair. It's worth a dollar.

Most of us won't hear of it, but it will have votes nevertheless, and that is the Socialist National ticket made in New York. Simon Wing, a Boston tailor, heads it, and Charles H. Matchett, a Brooklyn carpenter, tails it. The party, by the way, desires to abolish the offices for which they select candidates; also the United States senate. They would have the country run by an executive board and a house of representatives. The states represented were as follows: Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, and Pennsylvania. The convention was composed of eighteen men.

BOSTON WANTS ALLIGATORS.

To Eat Charles River Garbage and Yawn at the Harvard Crew.

Alligators are very useful beasts and very industrious in their efforts to purify the streams which they inhabit. They dispose of a great deal of filth in rivers. The suggestion that several dozen, or even several hundred, live alligators be imported for residence in the Charles river is timely and fascinating. They would, of course, need salt water instruction such as other graduates of fresh water schools get at Harvard. An alligator colony on our shores would lend to Boston a certain tropical environment which our cities consider that we lack. The alligators could frolic picturesquely in front of the Embankment for entertainment of the poor; they could sport gayly in and out under the new bridge and they could pull up in a shoal before the Harvard boat-house and teach the crews how to yawn when they are really tired—say after a race with Yale. If they did not survive the rigors of our winter their skins would be eagerly bought in Lynn and a new lot of summer boarders of their class imported for the Charles next summer. The condition of that river is no joking matter; we might as well all die in alligators' jaws as in the jaws of this terrible nuisance of foul odors and pestilence-breeding flats. There's a great deal of work to be done by Boston and Cambridge, and prompt work, too, in this matter of the river's improvement. Longfellow's verses to the River Charles have a meaning which will be individually prophetic and pathetic if something isn't done soon, especially that verse beginning—

> Oft in sadness and in illness
> I have watched thy currents glide.

It glides far too slowly at present. The poet said—

> Thou hast taught me, silent river,
> Many a lesson deep and long;
> Thou hast been a generous giver—
> I can give thee but a song.

But the authorities can make the Charles worthy its poets again by giving it a good thorough housecleaning.—Boston Transcript.

THE POLICE BOARD.

Health Matters Occupy Attention of the Members

At the Meeting Last Night—Precautions Taken to Prevent Spread of Disease—Health Officer Fisher Gets a Raise —Two New Cops.

The police board met in regular session last night, with all members present.

Health Officer Fisher submitted his monthly report. It showed 168 deaths ofr the month, being 24 more than last month. Of this number, 12 died of consumption and one of diphtheria. There were no deaths from scarlet fever during the month. There are at present 14 cases of diphtheria, 9 cases of typhoid fever, and 7 cases of scarlet fever under treatment.

The report from the sanitary department showed 3,825 nuisances abated and 3,996 notices served.

Chief of Police Raitz reported that Lance A. Lupton, a policeman, had left the city after the last pay day, and had not been heard from. Lupton was dismissed.

The finance committee reported the pay rolls for the three departments, which were approved.

Health Officer Fisher reported a sanitary policeman discharged and the vacancy filled, which was approved by the board.

Health Officer Fisher submitted special orders drafted, directing owners of buildings 805, 811, 813, 815 and 817 Summit street to tear the structures down on account of their being in an unsanitary condition. Similar orders were issued relative to the brick buildings on the corner of St. Clair and Perry streets, and a frame building in East Toledo, of which Dr. E. Scott is agent. With regard to the building at the rear of the Hamilton hotel on Superior street, Dr. Fisher reported that A. K. Detwiler agreed to tear down half of the building and put the remainder in good condition.

On motion of Mr. Stager the orders were approved.

Health Officer Fisher stated that the state board of health had ordered a quarantine of the lakes and that he had been appointed quarantine inspector for this point. He requested that the board concur with him in any action he may deem necessary to take. He stated that he had not decided upon any definite plan of procedure, but thought he would charter a tug, employ men enough and stay down at Presque Isle, and as vessels came into the harbor go out and meet them and complete the examination. If there be any contagious disease aboard the sick person will be removed and the boat held. He also said that all trains should be inspected, and that passengers from Canada or any points in the vicinity of the Canadian or lake boundaries be examined. The lake quarantine would be enforced, beginning to-day, and continue until such time as circumstances would permit raising it.

Mr. Stager, in a very neat speech, complimented Dr. Fisher upon the excellent manner in which he is conducting his department, and moved that his salary be increased from $1,200 to $1,500 per year, which met with the unanimous approval of the board.

Mr. Waring moved that Meat Inspector Brown's salary be increased from $1,000 to 1,200 per year, which failed to carry.

Garbage Contractor O'Hara was present and by permission made a few remarks. He said that he was tired of the silly innuendos which are being constantly cast out by certain people about the manner in which he collects the garbage. If there were any full barrels which had been standing so long he would like to know their whereabouts. He said he has been paying out $600 per month for help and $280 for horse feed, to say nothing of a horse worth $150 which had died, and repairs constantly needed, and in return he makes $700 per month. In other words he pays $100 a month for the pleasure of gathering up people's slop. He concluded by extending an invitation to the members of the board to take a ride through the alleys and see if what he said was not true. His invitation was declined with thanks.

E. E. Newbury and C. D. McLean were appointed to fill vacancies on the force.

The hearing of the charges against Officer Ohlms, who shot the Gavin boy in the Ninth ward some time ago, was continued until the next meeting, the prosecuting witness being unable to attend.

THE BEARDS OF EUROPE.

A patient investigator has recently ascertained that 12 out of every 100 Frenchmen wear a beard. The percentage of Spaniards with beards is 35; Russians, 29; Austrians, 21; Englishmen, 7; Italians, 80.

The Italian are thu shown to be the most hirsute people in Europe which shows that superior strength does not reside in the beard.

EXTRA INDUCEMENT TO WIN.

Passer-by (to Tommy, who has just been fighting)—Wouldn't your father whip you if he knew you had been fighting?

Tommy—Well, that depends. If the other boy licked me pa would lick me too, but if I licked the other boy pa would just say, "I wouldn't fight if I were you, Tommy."

THE AWFUL BRILLIANTINE.

"Dearest," said she.

"What is it?" said he, strangely.

"I hope you won't be offended, but I would like to know if you put that stuff on your mustache to keep off the flies?"—Indianapolis Journal.

THOMAS A. HENDRICKS.

His Memory Honored in Indiana.

The Campaign Warming Up and Everything Hopeful for the Democrats.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 8.—Yesterday was the anniversary of the birth of Vice President Thomas A Hendricks, and it was appropriately observed in many parts of the state.

One of the largest celebrations was that at New Albany, where there was a long parade of the campaign clubs of the city and adjoining counties, followed by a mass meeting at which Senator David Turpie, Jason P. Brown and other distinguished democrats delivered addresses.

In this city the event was observed by a democratic mass-meeting at Tomlinson's hall, the great rallying place of the city, and which was crowded to the doors.

The principal address was delivered by Hon. A. E. Stevenson, who followed the lines of his recent addresses in other parts of the state. Mr. Stevenson, with Hon. A. J. Hunter, candidate for congressman-at-large from Illinois, ex-Governor Gray, Congressman Bynum, Senator Voorhees and other distinguished democrats were escorted from the hotel to the hall by the Hendricks club. The hall was appropriately decorated.

This morning Candidate Stevenson, accompanied by a number of Indiana democrats, resumed his tour of the state. He made a brief address at Marion this morning, and this afternoon he will speak at Alexandria and Summitville, while to-night he will address a mass-meeting at Anderson.

STREET CAR STRIKE.

Hamilton, Ont., Sept. 8.—About 50 of the 80 or more motormen and conductors employed by the electric street railway company went on a strike for 10 hours a day, extra pay for overtime and reinstatement of union men whom the company have discharged. About 30 of the employes who refused to strike and a few unskilled men are trying to keep the cars running, but with poor success.

DRUNKENNESS

Or the Liquor Habit Positively Cured by administering Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of coffee or tea, or in food, without the knowledge of the patient. It is absolutely harmless, and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. It has been given in thousands of cases, and in every instance a perfect cure has followed. It never Fails. The system once impregnated with the Specific, it becomes an utter impossibility for the liquor appetite to exist. GOLDEN SPECIFIC CO., Prop'rs, Cincinnati, O. 48-page book of particulars free. IN TRADING CIRCLES

Both at Our Home and Abroad.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Currents for Produce and Other Articles.

The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 181,812 bu and at five other western points 828,899 bu; aggregate 1,010,711 bu. On the corresponding Thursda in 1891 the receipts at same points are not ascertainable from our files, as it was a holiday here.

Export clearances yesterday from four Atlantic ports were: Wheat 385,582 bu and flour to an aggregate of 525,000 bu.

English markets open at unchanged prices, but dull f r wheat and corn.

In public and private elevators Chicago has in store 7,400,000 bus. of wheat. The stock in regulars elevators, at corresponding date date in 1891 was 2,833,000 bus.

The Montreal Trade Bulletin says that "Ontario" has a large crop of wheat and good reserves from the old crop.'

Sullivan says he "fough: once too often." That is what wheat dealers do, occasionally.

One feature of the wheat situation should not be overlooked, and that is, that the quality of foreign crops are greatly improved compar d with last year, and that farmers are ready and willing sellers at even the low prices. Farmers—like other peopl —are gregarious, and the same influences that have induced our people to sell are no less powerful abroad, notably, that those who held back, last year, were loosers. It may not be time yet, but these supplies of good home grown wheat over the water, will decrease the demand on America ere long. The quantity on ocean passage to the continent of 7,500,000 bus. against 20,000,000 bus last year indicates light purchases of foreign wheat, and the stocks of old wheat are ample if need d for mixing with new.

In imitation of foreign markets our own have been unusually steady to-day. The fluctuations have been very light and the markets without any animation until near the close of business of wheat, when prices weakened simply for want of support and closed lower. Wheat is too low to excite speculation.

Corn has fluctuated more than wheat, but closes about unchanged.

In New York, October wheat closed at 79 5-8c, a loss of 5-8c. December, 82 7-8c a loss of 1-2c. September corn at 55 3-4c, a gain of 3-4c. October at 55 1-4c, a gain of 1-4c.

In Chicago October wheat closed at 74 1-8, a loss af 1-2; December at 76 3-8, a loss of 3-8. September corn at 47 3-4, a gain of 1-4; October at 48 1-4, unchanged.

In Toledo business in the speculative line of trading has been very light to-day. There seems to be very little to encourage trading by the bulls in wheat and dealers are timid about taking the short side at the prices. Opening prices were at about the closing of yesterday, but we close with little loss. September 1-4, October 1-2, December 1-2 and May 1-4. On the call December sold at 78 7-8 and May at 84 1-4. On the regular board September sold at 76 1-4 to 76 1-2 and closed at 76; October sold at 76 3-4 and closed at 76 1-4, all bid; December sold at 78 3 4 and closed at 78 1-2; May at 84 and closed at 83 3-4 bid.

Cash wheat was in light request. The sales of No. 3 soft sold at 76 1-4c and closed at 76c. No. soft at 68c to 68 1-4c. December sold at 70 3-4c to 71c. No. 4 soft at 61c and 65c in the L. S. Rejected No. 1 at 65c No. 2 at 51c to 52 1-2c. No. 1 white at 75c. No. 2 white at 73c.

Corn—No. 2 at 49c; No. 3 at 48 1-2c; No. 3 yellow at 49c. On the call October sold at 49c.

Rye—On the call September sold at 58c. On the regular board October at 59 1-4c; No. 3 at 48 1-2c.

SHE GAVE HERSELF AWAY.

A Slip in Grammar Results in Matrimony.

"Will you marry me, dear?" asked Mr. Bleecker of Miss Emerson.

"No, sir," replied Miss Emerson, who did not even say it was sudden, although it was, for Mr. Bleecker had been presented to her only a week before.

She thought his presumption merited a decided rebuff.

"Say 'no' again, dear," said Mr. Bleecker.

"No, sir!" she repeated, with even more positiveness in her voice than the first time.

"Thanks! Oh, I'm so happy!"

And Mr. Bleecker threw his arms around the astonished maiden's neck and kissed her persistently and vigorously. She struggled to free herself, and then demanded:

"What does this mean, sir?"

"I was merely enjoying the privileges of an accepted lover," he replied, unabashed.

"Accepted lover?" (This in astonishment).

"Yes. We are engaged."

"Will you kindly explain whether or not you have lost your mind?"

"Lost nothing, my love. You have been to school, haven't you?"

"Certainly."

"You studied grammar?"

"Of course."

"You are familiar with the ordinary rules of grammar, then?"

"I trust so. But what has this to do with it? If you are a director looking for a school teacher, I would advise you to look elsewhere, Mr. Bleecker."

"That it not my business at present. If you are familar with the rules of grammar, then you, of course, know that two negatives make an affirmative."

"W—W—Why, yes."

"That's it exactly. I asked you to marry me. You said 'No' twice. That means yes. Oh, my darling, how I love you!"

Whereupon he embraced her again, and Miss Emerson, seeing that she had plighted her troth according to the Lindley Murray rules, made no further objection, but married him.—Puck.

DOGS OF WAR LET LOOSE.

During the last year numerous experiments have been made in Germany with the Scotch collie dogs for military purposes, especially during the times of war, and it has been found that this dog is the best and most available among the various breeds of dogs, and from now on, according to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, trained collies will be added to the standing armies of Germany and France. The services to which the Scotch collies will be trained are numerous. They will serve as messengers for carrying dispatches and ammunition.

They are furthermore trained for reconnoitering and for hunting up the wounded and carrying them on ambulances, especially constructed for that purpose, to the field hospitals. For the latter purposes these dogs are said to be particularly valuable.

PERILS OF TRAVEL.

"Charles," said a fond wife, who was assisting her husband in preparing for a short journey, "what is this flask of whisky for?"

"That," said her husband, suddenly looking up from his valise. "O, that's to be used exclusively in the case of snake bites."

"But, my dear," remonstrated the little woman, "there are no snakes in the cars."

"O, yes there are—at times. You see, when they stop to wood up, or take water at some way station out in the woods—some gloomy swamp or bayou—the snakes board the train and crawl around among the passengers' legs. It's mighty annoying, and dangerous, too. And then, too, I've seen men on the cars with their boots full of snakes—real serpents—none of your circus poster reptiles, but the genuine article. Yes, I shouldn't consider my life worth ten cents if I were to leave that bottle of whisky behind."—Texas Siftings.

A BAD SCARE.

The Villainous Looking Negro Who Frightened a Couple of Travelers.

A crowd of ten had been sitting in the bar-room all the evening telling stories, says the New York Sun. This stranger with a broadbrimmed hat had been admitted to the circle early in the night and had listened attentively, but had not talked. It was nearly midnight when one of the circle demanded a story from him.

"Really, gentlemen," said the stranger, "I'm not much of a story-teller, but I can tell you of an experience I had. It was the time I came nearest being scared to death. My friend, George Wood, and I had been out in the mountains of Tennessee prospecting for coal mines all day and it was coming on toward dusk.

"We hadn't seen a living soul or a habitation of any kind in the whole journey till we came to this hut. A white-haired old darkey sat by the door humming a salvation hymn. An old woman, evidently his wife, was fixing hoe cakes, and the smell that came from her kitchen was most delightful. We hailed the old man, and he bade us welcome. The old woman came out and greeted us as only the old mammies can, and then she bustled around and increased the supply of hoe cakes.

"It was dark when supper was ready, and then there came an addition to the family in the shape of the most villainous looking negro that I ever saw in my life. He looked fully six feet three inches in height, with coarse features, a coarser tongue and a surly manner. We felt instinctively the moment we laid eyes on him that he was probably the wickedest man in the whole mountain region, and it made us feel uncomfortable, especially as we had arranged to spend the night at the cabin. The aged couple had assured us that the next house was ten miles away, beyond a little mountain pass, hard to travel over at night.

"This big brute of a negro had a rifle, which, as he came in, he flung down by the hearth, making some savage exclamation as he did so. We realized that we were in for it, as it was impossible for us to reach the next house in the darkness, strangers that we were. We were hungry, but somehow we couldn't eat. This fellow at all times glared at us out of the corners of his eye. We were glad enough when the meal was over. We all sat around the big open fire for awhile and then the old couple went to bed, leaving us alone with the big negro. He had never a word to say to us, but every time we looked at him we could see that he was watching our every movement, and he had his foot on the rifle, which lay by the hearth. George and I, of course, had revolvers, and, after a whispered consultation, we decided that the only thing to do was to go to bed with these weapons held in our hand under the bed clothes, cocked and ready for use, and we agreed that at the first sign of an attack we would shoot.

"It was about 10 o'clock when we lay down. We had hoped that this fellow would go off to bed himself. But he still sat by the fire and showed no signs of moving. We were in no condition to sleep and didn't sleep. I'm not often afraid of a man, but here the continued suspense was fearful. I felt that every individual hair on my head was standing straight up and was very rapidly turning gray. I reached my hand softly over and touched the finger of George. They were as cold as ice. He responded to the touch with a squeeze. I knew he was as bad off as I was.

"Half an hour passed. It seemed an age. I felt that I couldn't stand the thing much longer. I was getting weak. My head was partly buried in the pillow, but with one eye half opened I could see the figure of the savage watcher and caught his furtive glances toward me. Finally I decided to draw him on. I was certain he meant murder, but anything, I thought, to get the thing over. I began breathing heavily as a man does in a sound sleep. One—two—three—five minutes passed. All the while the eyes of the villainous wretch were glued on me. I wanted to jump up and make a run for it, but I dared not. Six—seven—eight minutes, and then apparently, the fellow was satisfied there was no shamming. Slowly he reached down and got his rifle.

"'Now,' I thought, 'comes the end,' and I clutched my pistol so hard that there was danger that it would explode.

"Rifle in hand the fellow crept up to us. The dull light of the fire threw a ghastly glare on his brutal face. Whether or not it was my imagination, I do not know, but his eyes looked shining red. Stoop shouldered and almost creeping as he was, he seemed to make a great wild beast, crouching for a spring. I would have given all that I possessed or that I ever expected to possess had I been out of there. I was paralyzed. I could not have moved the hand that held the revolver had I tried. I was positively helpless. I felt that death was but a minute away.

"Now he was by the bedside, leaning over and listening. I broke in a cold perspiration. A moment's inspection and he straightened up and began moving noiselessly toward the door, near which there was another bed.

"'He is going to lock the door and then shoot us,' I thought.

"You've heard tell of all the scenes of a man's life passing before his eyes when he is drowning. Well I believe every sin I ever committed and some I had never committed passed before my eyes then. 'Just a moment,' I thought, 'and he will kill me,' and just the moment that this thought was uppermost in my mind the savage, the great brute with the coarse and horrible features and the murderous manner, dropped on his knees beside that other bed and buried his face in his hands, and I heard the words:

"'Now I lay me down to sleep,
I pray the Lord my soul to keep.'

"But my partner and I had been scared nearly out of our lives before they came."

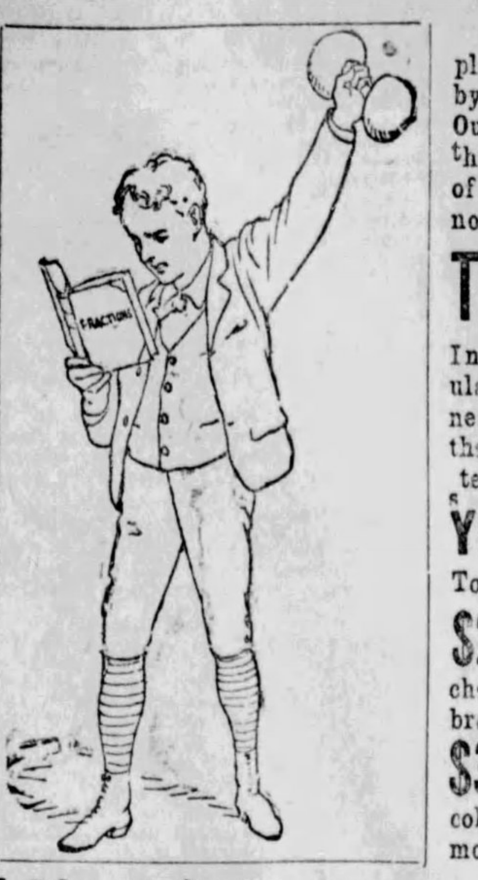
FOR THE SCHOOL BOYS



For the past two weeks we have been kept hustling checking off and placing in stock the NEW SCHOOL SUITS recently purchased by Mr. Mockett while in New York. Our "Boys' Department" is Mr. Mockett's hobby, and no one knows better than he what is requisite to make up a suit that will stand the severe tests of a school play ground. The result of his recent purchases is that we now have one of

The Best Stocks of Strong School Suits

In the country. Among the new goods are several styles of our justly popular "Knockabout" Suits. To parents who have bought these goods, we need not say a word in praise, while to others we would merely suggest that they give them a trial. To sell a "Knockabout" means to make a steady customer of the purchaser.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO PAY A BIG PRICE!

To get your boy a neat and good suit. Look at these prices.

$2.50 and $3.00 At these prices you will find plenty of suits, sizes from 4 to 14 years, in neat patterns, checks, plaids, etc., and well made, first-class style, single or double breasted.

$3.50 and $4.00 Every suit made up in a strong and conscientious manner. The fabrics are all wool, the color fast, and the materials lasting. If you want a good suit for little money buy one of this lot.

$4.50 and $5.00 These are our better suits, and to give any description of them is impossible. The variety, both in styles and cloths, are far too great. All we say is come and look. It to your interest to do so.

. . . . . GENTLEMEN'S TOP COATS. . . . .

We have a large and excellent stock of Fall Weight Overcoats now ready for your inspection. They are just the thing for these cool evenings.
